STOTT'S
COLLEGE

Welcome to Acknowledge Education. In its 130+ year history in education, the school has seen many changes, but has always kept true to its mission and values. Our mission: to stay a challenging, relevant and creative leader in the education industry. Our values: honesty and integrity in dealing with all stakeholders. – Suzanne Jackson, Acknowledge Education

English for Health Professionals
(OET Preparation)
CRICOS 080626C

This course is designed to help overseas healthcare professionals prepare for the language and communication skills necessary in a variety of clinical contexts. MLC as an OET Premium Preparation Provider will offer courses with specific entry level requirements and course length that provide you with the required language level and skills to reach your targeted OET score. While practice tests are of benefit, they are not sufficient on their own to prepare you for the exam; therefore, the course also:

- Recreates an exam room environment to help you adjust to a test setting
- Helps you prepare for a medical workplace in Australia
- Teaches exam skills and tips for each of the four OET exams
- Provides feedback and individual training plans from a trained OET teacher
- Offers plenty of practice materials

Certificate III in Individual Support CHC33015
CRICOS 0102143

The Certificate III in Individual Support (Ageing, Home and Community) course provides you with a holistic approach to caring for the Older People within our community. This course is designed to equip you with the skills to provide physical and social support to elderly individuals and people in hostels, group homes and community settings. The course also aims to provide you with the knowledge, skills and values required to perform competently as professional Health Care Workers. This group of professionals are expected to carry out activities to maintain personal care and/or other activities of living for people in an aged care setting. This qualification addresses work primarily in residential facilities under direct or regular supervision within clearly defined organisation guidelines and service plans. The course structure is designed to ensure a balance between theory and practice.

Diploma of Nursing HLT54115
CRICOS 095803A

The Diploma of Nursing course includes contemporary nursing knowledge, nursing practice and attainment of NMBA Enrolled Nurses Standards for Practice (2016) at graduate level. The primary focus of the Diploma of Nursing Program consists of professional, evidence-based and contemporary nursing practice with the central focus being the provision of patient-centred individualised nursing care assessment, planning, intervention and evaluation of care provided. The context of the nine national health priority areas – cancer control, cardiovascular health, injury prevention and control, mental health, diabetes, asthma, arthritis and musculoskeletal conditions, obesity and dementia – are addressed in acute and chronic care, palliative, rehabilitation, aged care and mental health within the program.

ACWA

AUSTRALIAN COMMUNITY
WORKERS ASSOCIATION

Diploma of Community Services CHC52015
CRICOS 091282J

With a Diploma of Community Services, you can graduate with the knowledge and skills to be a valued professional worker in the community service industry. Upon completion of the course, you will have gained the theoretical and ethical foundation required to prepare you for a meaningful and stimulating career. This may include working in areas such as child and family services, domestic violence, employment support, community development, and migrant services, among others.

*Awaiting ACWA accreditation for Brisbane campus.

Bachelor of Community Services
CRICOS 096281C

The Bachelor of Community Services is a fully accredited Australian higher education degree. The course at Stott's College is designed to prepare you for ethical, competent, and culturally relevant community service generalist practice and to equip you with the skills you need for life-long learning and professional development. Upon completion, you will work at the interface between people and their environments, focusing on experiences of individuals, families, groups and communities. Some areas of service provision may include child welfare, hospice and palliative care, juvenile justice and corrections, and advocacy. You will be exposed to the theory and values base of human services practice, as well as the knowledge and necessary skills required to work as a professional in the community services sector. You will have the necessary foundation knowledge and skills in community services to continue to a relevant post-graduate higher education course at a university or a private higher education provider.

Kirill Leman

"I am currently in my second year in the Bachelor of Community Services, and I am really overwhelmed with the amount of support and knowledge that each lecturer brings. The staff at Stott's College are always friendly, and every time I see any of them, they always have a bright smile on their face. Through my studies, I found that Counselling is what I would like to pursue as my career, because helping your clients overcome their personal obstacles and problems is the most satisfying achievement you can ever get."

– Kirill Leman, Bachelor of Community Services, Stott's College

When I was researching and exploring my options of colleges to study community services, I came across Stott's College and instantly knew this was the place to be. With a strong support system for international students, I am able to capitalise on the opportunities available here to achieve my goal. I have enjoyed access to a range of services and units created to promote career development, with first and second placements in reputable welfare organisations. The staff are friendly and very helpful.

– Kate Ifeoma Agbim, Diploma of Community Services, Stott's College

"We believe graduates of the Diploma of Community Services and Bachelor of Community Services at Stott's College will be employable in the community service industry."

– Jesu Jacob, Australian Community Workers Association (ACWA)
